

Application Pack

Things to note before submitting a job application

- Which application documents are required and will be considered during the review process?
We only accept the standard application pack template available for download on our website, along with your most recent CV (Please ensure that both files do not exceed 3MB in total size.) Additional documents such as testimonials, references, or certificates are not required at this stage and will not be reviewed.
- Is it appropriate to contact the selection panel for further details about the role and its responsibilities?
At this stage, the Recruitment Team is your primary point of contact. The job advertisement provides sufficient information about the role. Any further clarification is considered sensitive and confidential and can be discussed during the interview if you are shortlisted.
- Is it possible to submit a single application package for multiple separate job postings?
To be considered for multiple roles, you must submit a separate application pack and CV for each position. Please do not combine applications into a single email. This requirement also applies to Temporary Employment Registration.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

- Why do some job applications fail to reach our recruitment inbox successfully?
Applications that include documents embedded directly into the email body are often blocked due to our IT department's strict security protocols. To ensure your application is received, please attach all required documents as separate files in a single email submission.
- Will relocation, housing, and schooling support be provided if I am shortlisted for the role?
Relocation, housing, and schooling support are not provided as part of the Australian High Commission's employment package.
- What is the process for obtaining work visa sponsorship?
For all Australian or other non-host country nationals applying for this role, employment is contingent upon obtaining relevant visas from the relevant local authorities such as the Immigration and Checkpoints Authority (ICA) or the Ministry of Manpower (MOM), to enter and reside in Singapore. Only after this approval will the employer proceed to apply for the appropriate work visa on behalf of the selected candidate.

Please note that the work visa process may involve probity checks, police background verification, and pre-employment medical clearance. If permission to remain in Singapore is denied, revoked, or not renewed, both the employment and the signed contract will immediately become invalid in accordance with local labour laws.
- Are the employment conditions subjected to Australian or Singapore labour law?
Locally engaged staff are employed by the Australian High Commission under conditions of service in compliance with Singapore labour law.
- Is it possible to perform the employment on a fully remote basis from outside Singapore?
None of the Australian High Commission's locally engaged roles are eligible for remote work outside of Singapore.

- Is employment with the organisation subject to the Singapore tax system?
Yes, employment income earned in Singapore is subject to taxation under the regulations of the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS). Australian High Commission employees are responsible for ensuring they comply with local taxation regulations.
- Is employment with the organization subject to Australian Superannuation entitlements and Tax Residency requirements for Australian employees?
Australian Superannuation entitlements and tax residency status will depend on the outcome generated by the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) online tool.
